

This is the reply Chris received from Robin Adams on 30th November 2018 which excluded Rodney and appears to seek to drive a wedge between our love for each other. It also caused further offence by banning us from the Church and denying us communication. We have of course ignored the communication bit.

We are concerned that any priest of the Church of England today would believe that homosexuality is a lifestyle choice.

Dear Mr. Wilkinson,

The major problem between us, and the reason for my silence has been my feelings of being bullied by you. Not, you will take note, you're chosen lifestyle. Congratulations! you are the rudest person I have encounter in my year in France. When I greeted you pleasantly you refuse to shake my hand and then inserted yourself into the agenda disrupting our meeting and insulted me and others for 30 minutes with warrant. I was trying to get past this by the end of the meeting and make allowances for the obvious pain you have encountered. I thought perhaps I was on the receiving end of transferred anger. But since then your e-mails and Internet behaviour have disturbed me greatly. Bullying is something the diocese takes seriously and it has safeguarding implications. Terminating communication with an abrasive and obsessive person seemed to be the safest option, so off into the spam box you went.

I am now willing to give you a second chance and will agree to another face-to-face meeting. It will be between you and I only, at a neutral location. Our only issue to resolve at that time will be why you have been behaving so rudely and what you are willing to do to fix the problem. After I am satisfied that we have made progress we can then set up a further meeting to discuss the meaning of Lambeth 1.10 with you and your partner.

It is not possible to meet until the spring of next year, so I will contact you at that time to arrange a location and time.

Do not contact CCB or myself until we have meet and successfully resolved the bullying issue. This is your chance to prove yourself trustworthy.

Sincerely

R. T. Adams

(Note CCB is Christ Church in Brittany)
